

SUMMARY

Northwest Immigrant Rights Project (NWIRP) seeks a part time bilingual (Spanish) volunteer to work in our Violence Against Women Act Unit (VAWA) in Seattle, Washington.

In this unpaid position, the volunteer will have the opportunity to work directly with clients, learn about the current immigration system, and put their language skills at use in a work setting. We provide training for all our volunteers, and constant support throughout their time with us.

The volunteer will focus on working with clients that just have gone through our intake process. This includes helping clients with filing FBI background checks, freedom of information act requests, or finding any other particular record that their case might require.
